

PREFACE

This supplementary material is intended to provide materials for teaching English 1552105-Reading for Text Interpretation. Each of the five chapters consist of introductory analyses of the advanced comprehension skills, illustrated by examples chosen for their apt use of these skills. At the end of each chapter are examples of tests in which the students must apply what they have learned previously, a summing up, a review test and a bibliography. I have attempted to include more practice exercises, more tests that there will be time to study, as I hope the teacher will choose those materials he/she likes and is comfortable with. If this supplementary material provides any help to the teachers confronted by a bewildering array of the skills, it will have served its purpose.

Tamnong Jaroenroop

9 September 2004